DISCOVERING BALI

Categories filter

A screenshot of a web application's filter interface for Bali. The interface is divided into two main sections: a left sidebar for filters and a right map view. The filter sidebar includes sections for "Room Type" (with options like "Entire Place", "Private room", "Shared room"), "Price Range" (a slider from "Rp130000" to "Rp15000000+"), "Size" (dropdowns for "Bedrooms", "Bathrooms", "Beds"), "Options" (checkbox for "Instant Book"), "Neighborhoods" (checkboxes for "Bali", "North Kuta", "Seminyak"), "Amenities" (checkboxes for "Wireless Internet", "TV", "Kitchen"), "Property Type" (checkboxes for "Apartment", "House", "Bed & Breakfast"), "Host Language" (checkboxes for "English", "Español", "Français"), and "Keywords" (a text input with "ocean side, transit, relaxing..."). A red oval highlights the "Neighborhoods", "Amenities", "Property Type", and "Host Language" sections. A red text overlay reads: "Here's how we would like to have our categories and sub-categories displayed in our filter tools". The right section shows a map of Bali with several red location pins. A checkbox "Search When I Move the Map" is visible at the top of the map area.

Web site theme

We would like to have a parallax scrolling website for the Home Page (landing page) like this web site <http://what2do.asia/>

The parallax scrolling website is just a facade to explain our application and features and to promote our startup so the Google maps API does not appear on the main page.

It may be interesting for you to find an events directory theme and adjust it. We do not expect that you create a web site from scratch because of the time and resources required. Why not stand on the shoulders of giants!
